This course introduces students to the myriad ways in which social relations and sexual identities influence ethical judgments regarding various sexual practices and attitudes. Topics include the role of sexuality in human life and its relation to love and to marriage, the historical emergence of forms of sexual desire (‘sexualities’ and the categories of sexual orientation), the meaning and value of sexual freedom and sexual consent, sexual objectification and commodification, sexual subcultures and communities, and the intersection of sexuality with other forms of identity (race, class, gender, religion, ability, etc.). Satisfies general education Area C2 Humanities and Student Enrichment and Lifelong Fulfillment and Theme Q: Quality of Life.

General Education Attribute(s): C2 Humanities, GE (C2) Humanities, C2 Humanities and Self, GE C2 Humanities and Self, C2 Humanities and Self, GE C2 Humanities and Self, Self Enrichment & Life Fulfill, Self Support

Online, Theme Q: Quality of Life

This course analyzes the relationship between pestilence and population, between human historical achievements and biological weaknesses, and between history’s most dramatic episodes and biology’s most significant contributions.

This course introduces students to the academic study of gender and sexuality. Drawing on multiple disciplines such as communications, criminal justice, philosophy, psychology, religious studies, and sociology, students will examine multiple frameworks for thinking about gender and sexuality, their intersections with other social categories such as race, class, religion, and disability, and their differences across various social and cultural contexts. Prerequisites: Complete at least 45 units; prerequisite or corequisite GE A2. Satisfies general education requirement Junior Year Diversity and Reflection.

Requisite(s): Prerequisites: Complete at least 45 units; prerequisite or corequisite GE A2.

General Education Attribute(s): Junior Year Diversity Reflection

This course introduces students to the study of ethnicity, including its history in the academy and its methods of study. Drawing on multiple disciplines, students will examine frameworks for thinking about ethnicity and race, their intersections with other social categories such as gender, sexuality, class, religion, and disability, and their impact on diversity, discrimination and social mobility. Prerequisites: Complete at least 45 units; prerequisite or corequisite GE A2. Satisfies general education requirement Junior Year Diversity and Reflection.

Requisite(s): Prerequisites: Complete at least 45 units; prerequisite or corequisite GE A2.

General Education Attribute(s): Junior Year Diversity Reflection

This course surveys major schools of feminist theory and feminist approaches to research on women and gender across an array of academic disciplines, including an examination of conceptual frameworks and their development, relationships to other political theories, and application to the current practices of feminism.

A critical exploration of diverse cultures existing in U.S. society and of the cultural assumptions, values, and attitudes that shape understanding of cultural groups. Issues to be explored may relate to race, ethnicity, gender, class, age, religion, lifestyle choices, and socio-economic levels, among others. Students can expect to engage in theoretical and practical discussions related to the study of a diverse society.

Analysis of federal, state, and local administration of environmental laws. Includes study of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and litigation under that act in the courts. Special attention paid to California. Comparison of the environmental regulation policies of California and other oil-producing states. Case studies of legislation, adjudication, and political conflict in the environmental issues area. Prerequisite: Junior or higher.

Requisite(s): Prerequisite: junior standing or higher.

Theme course that has relational bearing on interdisciplinary studies interests. May be repeated for credit with different topics up to a maximum of 6 units.

Repeatable for Credit: Yes, up to 6 units

This is the capstone course for the Social Science Teacher Preparation Subject Matter Waiver Program. It challenges students to consider their social science subject matter courses holistically and integratively, and provides them with the opportunity to explore their reasons and motivations for pursuing a career in teaching. Students who successfully complete the course produce a portfolio that is a thoughtful, reflective, and informative self-assessment of their accomplishments, of their experiences as students, and of their goals for when they become classroom teachers.

Typically Offered: Spring

An introduction to research using electronic resources such as Lexis/Nexis and the Internet. Emphasis will be placed upon effective search strategy development, mastery of search tools, identification of potential resources, and retrieval of pertinent sources. Course will include legal research using Lexis/Nexis. Student will develop familiarity and skills related to search strategy development, search software, Internet navigation, research sites, and other related skills.

This course examines three distinct yet interconnected categories of legal research in a cogent manner so as to "draw a map" of legal concepts, arguments, and writing. Students will investigate the rule of law and related institutions in society, delve deeper into legal theory and foundational frameworks, and practice reasoning in oral and written arguments. Students will also gain practice with legal language throughout the course.

Theme course that has relational bearing on interdisciplinary studies interests. May be repeated for credit with different topics up to a maximum of 20 units.

Repeatable for Credit: Yes, up to 20 units
INST 4860  Interdisciplinary Internship (3)
Supervised field experience in community organizations and institutions. Career-oriented experience in the community setting is combined with academic activities in the college setting. Hours in the field, placement and academic requirements such as conferences, readings, and reports are arranged in consultation with work supervisor and faculty supervisor. Prerequisites vary depending on specific internship, but enrollment is limited to students with good academic records who are committed to development of professional skills in a given area. May be repeated for credit up to a maximum of 15 units.
Repeatable for Credit: Yes, up to 15 units

INST 4908  Senior Seminar (3)
Capstone course that integrates knowledge and experience acquired within the student's area of focus. Prerequisite: At least 90 units and completion of JYDR. Satisfies general education requirement Senior Capstone.
Requisite(s): Prerequisite: At least 90 units and completion of JYDR.
General Education Attribute(s): Capstone

INST 6850  Individual Study (1-3)
Independent investigation by the student in consultation with a professor in an area of major interest and approved by the student's Program Committee. Offered on a credit, no-credit basis only. May be repeated with different topics up to a maximum of 20 units.
Repeatable for Credit: Yes, up to 20 units
Typically Offered: To Be Determined

INST 6970  Masters Thesis in Interdisciplinary Studies (3)
Research in an approved area of study appropriate to the interdisciplinary nature of the degree conducted under the supervision of the student's Program Committee. An oral explanation and defense of the thesis is required. Offered on a credit, non-credit basis only.
Typically Offered: To Be Determined

INST 6980  Masters Project in Interdisciplinary Studies (3)
The project will be the application of both theory and methods appropriate to the interdisciplinary nature of the degree conducted under the supervision of the student's Program Committee. An oral explanation will be required. Offered on a credit, non-credit basis only.
Typically Offered: To Be Determined

INST 7000  Continuous Enrollment (0)
Graduate students who have completed the majority of their coursework but have not completed their culminating experience or thesis may enroll in this 0-unit course for the purpose of maintaining continuous enrollment. Prerequisite: approval of the Program Coordinator.
Repeatable for Credit: Yes, up to 0 units
Typically Offered: To Be Determined